To See Ourselves . . .

From the moment when primitive man first saw his reflection in a pool, we have been fascinated with mirrors and with images of ourselves. A Greek myth recounts how Narcissus lost his humanity as a punishment for preoccupation with his own image. But it is a healthy curiosity, not vanity, which impels us to scan the faces and pages of this yearbook, to search its mirror for clues to our identity, for a definition of who we are, individually and collectively.

The foresight we must have to prepare for the future depends upon the insight we acquire now. Seeing ourselves clearly is essential; we must know who we are in order to know what we may become. These pages bring us glimpses and images of the present, of ourselves as we go about the daily business of being and becoming, of learning and preparing for a future that depends upon the countless events and experiences that shape our present lives.

Some day we will return to these pages, impelled by nostalgia and the desire to remember who we were. Seeing again these words and faces, we will recall the time we spent together here, the educators who shaped and sharpened our minds, the events that gave meaning to our hours and years, and the friends who filled our hearts and lives. Then, our insight will be augmented with hindsight, and we will finally see ourselves clearly across the years.

Farsighted Leadership

Keeping the Andrean ship sailing smoothly is a difficult job. The work is hard, the hours are long, and the tasks are endless. From making policy decisions that will affect the lives of students for years to come, to locking doors at the end of the day, administration must attend to hundreds of details involved with Andrean's continued operation. We are fortunate in that we have an administration comprised of seasoned professionals who do their jobs with efficiency, proficiency, and love. In fact, the care that our administrators bring to their jobs distinguishes them among their peers. These are people who believe in what they are doing. In the end, that makes all the difference.

Focus

From bright pink frames with quarter-inch thick glass to thirty-year-old hornrimmed bifocals, eyeglasses can be as individual as the people who wear them. Many people choose frames that will reflect their personality or flatter the shape of their face. No matter what the frames look like, however, all glasses serve the same purpose, to bring the world around us into focus. Without this focus we would be lost in a confusing blur of images, unable to perceive or interpret the details of our world an important warning on a bottle of medication, or the intricate beauty of a flower. Eye glasses give us a sharper perspective and, at the same time, provide a mode of selfexpression through the frames we choose.

Of Carriages and Queens

Horsedrawn carriages were used for the first time during Homecoming, 1982 to transport queen candidates to the festivities. They participated in the Homecoming parade, climaxing an entire week of preparation and special spirit days.

Another innovation of this year's Homecoming was that queen candidates Charisse Brokemond, Jackie Bucko, Marita Jao, Kathy Pearce and Beth Wojkovich, were escorted by relatives rather than classmates to the football field at halftime. Suspense and excitement crackled in the air as Jackie Bucko was announced Homecoming Queen for 1982 and crowned by 1981 Queen Mardee LaMere. A sock hop the following evening climaxed an eventful Homecoming week for Niner fore.

Mardee LaMere, the former Homecoming Queen, yields the coveted crown to her successor, Jackie Bucko.

Beth Wojkovich and Kathy Pearce wait in an oldfashioned carriage for the beginning of the parade.

Spirit Days

The spirit of Niner fans comes through in many ways, particularly at Homecoming. From pep buttons to pep assemblies, from Booster Club to band, many outlets are available for Niner spirit.

Niners this year showed their spirit at Homecoming with a special Spirit Week, consisting of Grazy Socks Day, Hat Day, Tie Day, and finally, Cowboy Hat and Red and Gold Day.

Major attractions of the Homecoming parade were the three class floats. The junior float, proclaiming "Teepee the Indians," claimed first prize. A panel of faculty members judged decorated cars. Horsedrawn carriages carrying the Homecoming Queen candidates added a touch of nostalgia to the parade.

A quiet moment for conversation rounds out an evening of dancing for Denise Trapp and her escort.

Once a year Andrean's female population focuses its attention on finding a date for the Turnabout dance. The theme of the February dance, which was organized by Kathy Pearce and Mary Ann Wolfe, was "Love will turn you around." Students decorated the gym with hearts, streamers, and a silver tinsel carousel, and the music of Pawnz provided a romantic backdrop for couples enjoying an evening of dancing.

Duncan Hines and Georgann Ard model their costumes at the masquerade sock hop.

Dueling and Dancing

For years, sock hops and rec nights have been a time for Andrean students to get together and enjoy themselves, a time to get out of the house, make new friends and meet old acquaintances. At rec nights, classmates sharpen athletic skills and challenge each other to friendly contests of agility and coordination. Rec nights offer many sports for participation, including basketball, volleyball, ping-pong, dodgeball, and wallball. Two special sock hops were held this year, the Homecoming sock hop and a masquerade sock hop in November. The Homecoming sock hop replaced the traditional Homecoming dance. Sock hops and rec nights are sponsored by the Student Council.

For Shawn Hutchens and Karen Roytan, good music and a crowded dance floor are the perfect ingredients for an enjoyable evening. Gary Babicka and Nicki Zelin enjoy a fast moving dance.

Froshmore Night is back by popular demand! This year sophomore and freshman officers got together and decided to bring back this spectacular event. With the help of Father Cerretto and Sister Paul, the dance became a reality. Three members of the band which provided the dance with music were Andrean students, Paul Vale on the guitar, Bob Luckiewicz on the drums, and lesse Martinez on the keyboard.

Fury brings a rock beat to Froshmore Night festivities.

Tradition?

Winter Wonderland was the theme of Andrean's first Junior-Senior dance. Despite the cold and dreary January weather, the girls' gym was warm and cheerful, decorated with candy canes and twinkling lights. Guests danced to music provided by a local D.J., and enjoyed refreshments which were supplied and served by classmates. The Junior-Senior dance was initiated by the junior and senior class officers in the hope that it might become a tradition.

Lynne Mueller and Tony Puntillo enjoy the fun of the Junior-Senior dance.

Bare feet don't hamper the dancing spirit of Connie Oates.

Good Company

Mommy and Daddy Date Nights give Andrean students a chance to entertain their parents at an evening of dining and dancing. To commence the activities at both events this year, families gathered in the cafeteria to eat. Students and parents used this time for conversation. After the meal, a photographer took pictures to record the families' memorable experiences. Then the dances began — square dances, polkas, and contemporary music provided by Abbey Road. With such a variety, everyone found a favorite dance.

Graduating parents, those who have attended with their student for all four years, received diplomas and yellow carnations. The events were sponsored this year by Mrs. Hevel and a group of volunteer student workers.

Mudslinging — Niner Style

Rain brought mud and chaos to the twenty-third annual Armageddon games. Mudfights kept many participants out of the gym and indoor events. Two days of games began with the lighting of the torch at the pep assembly. Class officers ran a relay race, and the juniors won the food-eating contest, which consisted of picking jelly beans out of chocolate pudding without using hands. Despite cancellations and delayed games, seniors scored an overwhelming victory. Juniors placed a firm second, and freshmen narrowly escaped the cellar position occupied by sophomores.

Additions to the usual schedule of Armageddon events included Monopoly, Frishee football, and earthball, an instant success. The spirit award, determined by the number of participants in Spirit Week competitions, was captured by sophomores.

A Touch of Class

The rustle of gowns, the fragrance of roses, the scent of fine food, and the rhythm of music created an evening which sparkled with "a touch of class." As guests arrived at the Hellenic Cultural Center on April 29 for the 1983 Junior-Senior Prom, they placed their choices for Prom King and Queen in a secret ballot box. Before dinner, guests chatted, mingled with friends and admired each other's gowns and tuxedos. After a catered dinner the dancing began, with music by Third Power, and amidst drumroll and applause, Dom Bonta and Kathy Pearce were introduced as Prom King and Queen. The fun and excitement lasted until midnight when guests departed, taking with them wine glass souvenirs and many memories of the 1983 Prom.

Mental Bloc

The Andrean Quiz Bowl team won its way to the semi-finals of the 1983 WAKE Radio 1500 Scholastic Challenge, leaving behind a two-year record of six wins and only one loss. The team, nicknamed "the Mental Bloc," included seniors Mike Magura and Steve Volan, junior Tom Jagiella, sophomore sub Andy McAfee and moderator Fr. Martin. The season was marked by a narrow 225-200 victory over Chesterton and a hearthreaking loss to Merrillville in the semi-finals.

They only look idle. In actuality, Mike Magura, Steve Volan and Tom Jagiella are busily honing their wits for an upcoming Quiz Bowl battle.

Olympians

On April 25, Andrean freshmen competed in the National Language Arts Olympiad. The test consisted of objective questions which measured vocabu-lary. spelling, gram-mar and reading comprehension skills. Rob McMahon and Laura Knudson achieved top scores. Rob McMahon, Braden D'Andrea, and Paul Conarty led the boys' team and Laura Knudson, Tal Wongse-sanit and Meri McLean led the girls'. The combined scores of both teams placed Andrean among the top thirty schools in the nation.

Rob McMahon and Laura Knudson proudly receive medals from Father Benwitz.

The National Merit Semi-finalists are Laura Zaper, Eric Deggans, Linda Quinn, Chris Grusak, Steve Volan and Julie O'Connor.

The A Team

In October six Andrean seniors were announced as semi-finalists in National Merit competition. Eric Deggans, Christine Grusak, Julie O'Connor, Linda Quinn, Stephen Volan and Laura Zaper advanced to semi-finalist standing because of their high PSAT/NMS-QT scores. As semi-finalists, the six seniors became eligible for scholarships from colleges and corporations. Scholarships available ranged from a one time $1,000 award to a renewable $8,000 award for four years of study.

casual conversation that began with three students swapping tales their grandparents had told them developed into an all-school English assignment, and from there to an essay contest. After teachers made preliminary choices from their students' "Tales My Grandparents Told Me," a panel of three teachers and three students made final judgment and selected three awardwinning stories. Eric Deggans earned first prize, and Mike Saroian and Mini Bansal placed se-cond and third respectively.

Mini Bansal, Mike Saroian and Eric Deggans are winners of the 1983 English essay contest. According to Mrs.
Thomas, one of the faculty judges, "These stories reveal a wealth of lore that reflects the rich, diverse ethnic background of our student body. We hope to make these stories available for students to share and to make the contest an annual event."

Other faculty members who participated were sister Pamela and Father Martin. Seniors Christine Grusak, San Lewis and Steve Volan, the three whose conversation started it all, appropriately served as student nanelists.

On Broadway...

Success was the word for this year's Drama Club presentation of Whose Life Is it Anyway? Brian Clark's version of the controversial English play deals with the issues of euthanasia and suicide, expertly combining serious philosophical with light comedy. Whose Life Is it Anyway? is the story of Claire Harrison, a young woman who has survived an automobile accident which has left her paralyzed from the neck down. Claire decides that her life is no longer worth living and asks that she be released from the hospital and allowed to die. When the hospital administrator refuses her plea, she hires a lawyer and the case goes to court. In the final courtroom scene, the judge must decide whether Claire has the right to die or the responsibility to live.

Hard work and determination were essential to the success of this year's play. Student director Sue Wilczynski organized the production and supervised publicity and sales. Directors Father Heidt and Andrean alumna Shirley Pavlish coached the actors and actresses. Stage managers Tom Jagiella and Chai Kulsakdimun kept backstage operations organized, and over fifty crew members provided assistance for the production.

Consider Yourself At Home

To some people, the Freshman Picnic spells food, fun, and games. To others it means a chance to meet new classmates. Besides exciting events like the three-legged race, the wheelbarrow race, and the potato sack race, freshmen also enjoyed lunch and laughter and received a ticket to even more fun, the September sock hop. Acquainted with classmates and teachers, the class of '86 was ready for school to beein.

Eye-Catcher

What's your favorite subject? Andrean freshmen who were asked to rate their favorites and not-sofavorites on a questionnaire came up with some surprising answers. On a scale of one to ten, freshmen rated gym, language classes, music, art, and drawing highest with an average score of eight for each. English classes earned a rating of seven. while algebra led other math courses with a six. Biblical Literature, Biology and Health tied for last place in freshman affection with an average score of five each. In making their choices, freshmen revealed a profile of their class as a positive group of students.

Looking Up

"What's it like, being a senior?" asked one freshman in surprise. "I think it would be great to get an open lunch on Wednesdays and wear Izod Lacoste shirts!" Another freshman said, "I think I would like to be a senior because seniors are looked up to, while freshmen are discriminated against." But the most common attitude was, "I think it would be great to earn exemptions from exams." Although freshmen are deprived of the privileges of senior status, some still manage to enjoy life as underlings.

Eye-Catcher

It takes real courage to be a Niner. It takes even more courage to enter our doors that first, frightening day of school. Terrified by tales — true and tall — their older brothers and sisters have told them, freshmen quake at the thought of attending Andrean. Awed by our reputation for tough teachers, high academic standards, and strict discipline, they creep timidly through our halls.

Is it true that freshmen are confined to cells in the basement for forgetting homework, wearing gym shoes to class, or failing to show proper respect for seniors? Is it true that the blood drive is mandatory and that students are expelled for not selling all their raffle tickets? Does that tree in the courtyard really mark the Tomb of the Unknown Freshman?

Freshmen who survive their first year at Andrean graduate to the ranks of tale-tellers, horrifying younger friends and siblings with the same stories that struck terror in their own hearts only a year before. A note of pride creeps into their tales ... it's a tough job being a Niner, but someone's got to do it!

Insights

Our school motto, believe. Once we "Magister Meus Christus," or, "Christ is My Teacher," is a perfect example of the degree to which religion influences our lives here at Andrean. Theology classes help us to understand our faith, to learn why we believe what we discover our role in the universe, our faith is reinforced and our ties to God are strengthened. Classes about the Bible, morality, faith, and love bring us closer to the Church, helping us to understand our God, our world, and ourselves.

Mathematics is an inseparable part of our daily existence. Whether finding the speed of a subatomic particle for physics class, balancing a checkbook, calculating a batting average, or simply counting the change in our pockets, we use math in almost everything we do. The math department's goal is to teach the prin-ciples of higher mathematics. In four years at Andrean, the math major works his way through algebra, g e o m e t r y , trigonometry, and calculus, all the while encountering new ideas and increasing his knowledge. Specially modified courses are available to challenge advanced students and assist remedial ones. Whatever the need, from General Math all the way up to Advanced Math, the math department has a course for everyone.

The Lively Art

The success of Andrean will have read epic poems students in all academic areas depends upon their ability to express themselves in English. During four years of English courses, students develop language skills through study of great literature and intensive writing practice. Freshmen read such classics as The Merchant of Venice and To Kill A Mockingbird. By the time they graduate, students such as The Iliad, and great plays including Oedipus Rex. Hamlet, Macbeth, and The Glass Menagerie. Through this strong English program, made complete by composition and appreciation of literature, students learn the effective language usage demanded in all classes and the basic skills demanded by all teachers.

Latin: Alive and Well

Once again the sounds of "Vini, vidi, vici" echo through Andrean's halls as Latin classes translate accounts of Caesar's Gallic Wars. This reinstatement of advanced Latin comes in response to a nationwide renaissance of classical studies.

First year Latin students learn grammar, vocabulary, and Roman mythology. Second year course offers still more grammar with emphasis on translation of Caesar's Gallic Wars. A knowledge of the language and literature, however, is only part of the Latin curriculum. Students also acquire a knowledge of the culture and customs of ancient Rome.

Latin, far from being a dead language, is alive and well at Andrean. According to Sr. Paul, who teaches all levels of Latin, "Latin shall not pass from Andrean in my lifetime."

With an Eye to the Future

Whether a student plans to take his place in the business world of tomorrow or simply wants to acquire techniques for the business of daily living, he can learn these valuable skills at Andrean. In typing, ac-counting, and shorthand classes, students prepare for the business world through hard work and constant practice. With tance, typing skills are fast becoming as essential as speech for efficient communication in today's world.

And a good background in typing and shorthand aids students in preparing their assignments for other classes. Marketing, Business Law, and Business English round out the business department, teaching modern commercial methods and ideas. Times change, but a solid grasp of business skills and concepts remains necessary for success in the job market.

Music is an expression of the classes can be applied to life itself. Craftsmanship, teamwork, patience, and fortitude are just a few of the traits that the study of music instills in us. Perhaps the most important value that music teaches, however, is dedication. In this way, then, we not only learn how to be better musicians, but we learn how to be better people as well.

Joined Voices

Music and the appreciation of good music have been prized by every nation and every culture. Good music, however, is more than the perfect tone of an instrument or the harmony in a choir of joined voices. Members of the Andrean chorus work hard to convey this harmony of voice and environment in their singing. Under Mr. Freedman's direction, the beginning chorus and mixed chorus convey this Joy and harmony to their audiences.

Chorus students eagerly await further directions from Mr. Freedman.

Bright Lights

Andrean parents, students, faculty, and friends were treated to an afternoon of song and dance during the music department's spring concert. The show was comprised of selections from Tony-award winning musicals, ranging from Oklahoma's rustic flavor to the urban beat of 42nd Street. Andrean's concert band, jazz band, and concert choirs pooled their talents to produce a memorable performance.

Art — the word brings visions of Raphaels and Picassos. Yet those masters were once apprentices, just as Andrean's budding artists are apprentices of both decorative and applied arts. The industrial arts department emphasizes the practical aspects of art and design to prepare students for careers in trade and industry. Mr. Billick teaches classes

Looking It Up

Besides its use as a resource center, the library serves as Student Council chambers. Here, Brad Van Buskirk makes a proposal during a council When freshman classes enter Andrean, they are given library orientation tours by Fr. Martin, who shows them what the library has to offer and how to use it as an effective tool. The library, however, is not just a place for study. In the library, a student can choose from a variety of magazines or other works of literature to enjoy in his free time. Before school, after school, or during study hall, many students come to the library to relax by listening to the stereo, looking at magazines, or reading a book. The library, of course, is also very useful for intensive study and research, since it contains books on almost every subject. Fr. Martin and Mrs. Owen work hard to keep the library stocked with up-to-date records, films, slides, and tapes, so that students and teachers alike may share the benefits of a modern, efficient library.

Being a sophomore is a drag. Nowhere City. The flush of freshman excitement at being in high school has faded, and the glorious state of upperclassmanship is still light-years away. Overlooked and underrated, sophomores wait in the wings, dutifully reading Julius Caesor and the Indiana Driver's Manual, studying geometry and world history, giving their quarters to Thursday mission collections and their best efforts to the JV. Twenty-eight brothers and sisters? Theresa Thiel can tell you what it's like. In 1962, after the death of their first child, Theresa's parents decided to open their home and hearts to foster children in need of love and care. Over the years, the Thiels have raised a total of twenty-three foster children in addition to their own six. Helping her family care for the babies gave Theresa a responsibility and was an important part of her life.

Though the foster children are now gone and living in other homes, the memories Theresa holds will remain forever. She says, "I contributed time and love for these infants, but I received more love from them than I could ever sive."

Dream Come True

Did you ever daydream of being an exchange student and going to school in a far-away country? Did you wonder what it would be like, what new friends you'd meet, or what difficulties you'd have with a foreign language and foreign customs?

Alecia Bicalho did more than wonder about it. She followed her daydream from her native Brazil to Indiana, where she lives with an aunt and uncle and attends Andrean with her cousin, Junia Bicalho.

"My sister Christina came to Andrean last year," Alecia explains, "and her experiences were so interesting and exciting that I wanted to try a year at Andrean, too." The language differences aren't a serious problem for Alecia, who studied English in Brazil. She is rapidly becoming fluent in English and learning to enjoy American customs and culture at the same time.

The Spanish Club has progressed and grown this year under the guiding hand of its new moderator, Mr. Cessna. One of the club's first priorities was to select a name for itself, that of Andrés Bello, a Spanish educator. At the beginning of the year, members held a picnic and a roller skating outing to acquaint old members with new ones. Later, the group made an expedition to a Spanish play, La Barca Sin Pescador, which gave members a taste of Latin culture and a preview of how the language sounds when spoken fluently. The Spanish fiesta at Christmastime is always a highlight of the year. This year members enjoyed a variety of Spanish foods and games. Festivities ended with cracking the piñata.

Candid Creativity

Thomas A. Edison's remark that "Success is one percent inspiration and ninety-nine percent perspiration" aptly describes yearbook staffers, who put in long hours to produce a good yearbook. Layouts must be designed, copy written, and deadlines met before the book can be completed.

With the help of moderator Mrs. Thomas and co-editors Julie O'Connor and Theresa Reibly, staffers learn valuable skills in designing and drawing layouts and get a chance to improve and demonstrate their writing talents. Under the direction of photography editor Deb Argenta, students master the art of taking and developing photographs. A seventh hour rounded out the Andrean schedule for the 1983 school year. The experimental seventh hour afforded more students opportunities to take art, music, study hall or personal typing.

The Andrean Athletic Association established the 59'er club in September, 1982, as a replacement for revenue gained from the annual car rafile of past years. Membership in the club is limited to 590 and members are eligible to win up to $1,000 in the monthly drawings.

Freshman Paul Conarty received four awards in the Calumet Regional Science Fair held at Purdue Calumet University. Paul's science project, "Lightwave Communications," was entered in the senior division and won awards in both the engineering and electronic fields.

Mr. Ivan Zimmer joined the Andrean faculty as head football coach. Before coming to Andrean, Mr. Zimmer played football for the University of Nebraska and was an assistant coach at Lake Central High School.

The annual Homecoming Dance was changed from a date dance to dressy sockhop in order to involve more students. The sockhop, featuring a disc jockey instead of a band, was open to all Andrean students.

A flash flood in the cafeteria was traced to its source in room 226 above. An organic chemistry class working on titrations produced the peculiar yellow liquid which leaked through the cafeteria ceiling and required extensive repairs.

Rev. Donald Benwitz came to Andrean in 1974 as a Spanish teacher and later took on the duty of Assistant Principal. He has concluded his five-year term as Principal and, as he departs on a trip to Mexico and a religious renewal program, he takes with him the prayers and good wishes of the Andrean community.

April 1 was a day that would live in Andrean history. Dr. Harry Piltdown, nuclear physicist, presidential candidate, and parttime Maytag repairman, visited our school, meeting with a delegation of students and faculty to discuss his latest book, Seeing Is Believing; The Lock Ness Monster In Lemon Lake.

Blue polyester blazers with missing buttons can be replaced with sweaters in the fall of 1983. The mandatory blazers, worn from December through April, have been discarded because of their high cost.

An era of boys' basketball under the leadership of Coach Dan Rogovich ended as Rogy stepped down to head Andrean's new office of alumni affairs. Rogovich, whose winning record included a trip to the state finals, became an Andrean basketball coach in 1965.

Two Andrean teachers added new members to their families in 1983. Mr. Eugene Giorgio welcomed Catherine Marie Giorgio on February 16, 1983. St. Patrick's Day ushered in a new addition to the Nicolini family as Gina Marie Nicolini arrived. The mothers of both babies are former Andrean teachers.

Under the direction of Sr. Paul, 42 Andrean Latin scholars earned awards in a National Latin exam. James Nash merited a gold medal for his performance on the exam.

Mismatched office doors were the result of a mishap involving sophomore Pat Ray, Pat's elbow collided with the closing office door and the glass door shattered.

The first year Andrean participated in the Inland Steel best all-around teacher competition, Mrs. Nancy Dustman was awarded top honors. From a field of other area teacher candidates, Mrs. Dustman earned recognition as 1983's best teacher because of her obvious dedication to her students and to her work.

Cum Laude

The forty-nine members of the National Honor Society possess the qualities of scholarship, leadership, character, and service. This year, the Cardinal Flahiff Chapter, headed by Sister Catherine Ann, had thirty-eight seniors and eleven juniors. Members of the National Honor Society are active in a variety of organizations at Andrean and in their communities. National Honor Society members are responsible for overseeing the Baccalaureate Mass and graduation. The members also organize the annual Open House for incoming freshmen.

Artistically Inclined

The Andrean Art Club, moderated by Mr. Listro, has been providing Andrean's halls with creativity for years. Posters and advertisements for school dances and plays are produced by the Art Club, which also sponsors cheek painting on St. Patrick's Day. Club members provide service not only for the school but for the community as well. This year, members painted a mural for the Lake County Convalescent home and received first prize for their Halloween decorations at the Village Mall.

Spreading the News

From sports and departmental news to student polls and thoughtful essays, the Acropolis spreads the word to the Andrean student body. With Mrs. Dakich as faculty advisor, the staff and writers publish eight issues yearly, each filled with information about current school activities. As a written view of student life at Andrean, the Acropolis is good news.

What does it mean to be a junior? For this year's juniors it meant winning. The junior class started off the year on the warpath by selling the most raffle tickets and having the prize-winning float, grasping victory away from the undefeated class of '83, with the motto "Teepee the Indians." For three weeks juniors worked under the leadership of class officers, Miss Burke, and Mr. Listro, the junior class moderators, to construct a large teepee.

Watch Out ...

Look out Connors, Borg, and McEnroe. Here comes Lori Zugbaum! Lori has won over sixty tennis titles. She has played on the Wightman cup team and in the Orange Bowl. She was ranked number one in Northern Indiana and twenty fourth in the Western. Due to a knee injury, however, she lost the rankings when she was forced to stay off the courts for a year. At Andrean she has attained a high school record of 14-2, winning the Highland doubles tourney in 1982 with senior Rohit Somani. Lori commented, "I hope to regain my old rankings and get a good national ranking this year. If my knee holds out I would love to travel all over the United States playing national tourneys throughout the summer. Tennis is very important to me and I hope to continue playing on scholarships when I go to college.

World Class

Trumpet player Rich Arrieta has been chosen to tour Europe this summer with the United States Collegiate Wind Band. This opportunity, sponsored by the American Musical Foundation, is given to talented juniors and seniors. He will spend approximately twenty-one days touring Europe and performing in concerts in London and other cities in France, Switzerland, Italy, and Germany. Later, on his journey back to the United States, Rich and other tour members will make a recording of their musical pieces in London.

Earlier this year, Rich won two musical awards, one of which was All-American Honors. Rich commented, "I am glad I have this chance to see Europe and am grateful to Mr. Freedman and the Andrean music department.'

Mark D. Close began baton twirling when he was four years old and started competing at the age of six. Inspired by his mother, a United States Twirling Association teacher, he has continued to twirl in teams, corps, and solo acts, earning over a hundred trophies. At fourteen he competed nationally with a corps, receiving first place over all competitors in the United States. At Andrean he twirls with Connie and Charlotte Oates, with whom he has been twirling for ten years. This trio competed in the United States Twirling Association Competition this summer, receiving a third. Mark is working towards the forthcoming competition in Italy. "Twirling has been very rewarding in the sense it has taken me worldwide and developed my coordination," says Mark. He plans to twirl in college, either in Indiana, Michigan, or Arizona. After college he would like to become a teacher and a judge for the United States Twirling Association.

Men on the Run

The Andrean Cross Country team experienced a rebuilding year. Although they lost five of the top seven runners from last year's semi-state team, the harriers finished with a respectable 7-7 record, placing fourth in sectionals and qualifying for regionals. The team was led by senior captain Roger Hruskovich. Roger was named Most Valuable Player, broke the school record twice, and placed second of 112 runners in sectionals with a time of 15:56 for the 3.1 mile course. The squad's Most Improved Runner award went to Jay Close, one of several freshman lettermen.

Mike Lovich pushes past an opponent to gain extra yardage for the Niners.

Coach Iatarola rounds up the varsity team for some last minute advice on the next play.

During time out, Coach Zimmer gives Niners a new game plan.

On the Fifty Yard Line

A new system instituted by firstyear coach Ivan Zimmer was the key to the 1982 varsity football team. Early morning spring workouts, weight-lifting sessions in the summer, and double sessions throughout August insured that the players would all be in good shape by the beginning of the football season. Coach Zimmer also introduced a host of new offensive and defensive plays during the season. Most players agreed that the new system was effective, but nevertheless difficult to implement fully in one year. By midseason, however, the Fifty-Niners had captured an impressive victory over twentieth-ranked Michigan City Rogers, followed by a victory over Lew Wallace, tough overtime losses to Portage and Merrillville, and a season-ending defeat of Gary Wirt. Senior Ron Grammas finished his Andrean football career as Most Valuable Player, as well as Most Valuable Offensive Lineman. This year's Most Improved Player Award went to Greg Pavilk; other award-winners were Paul Allegretti, Most Valuable Defensive Lineman, Roy Dakich, Most Valuable Linebacker, and Tom Blake. Going for the Pin

Despite near-perfect individual records of 24-2 and 19-8 by seniors Ron Grammas and Paul Allegretti respectively, the 1982-83 matmen suffered a disappointing season. The varsity team, led by Coach Ralph latarola and co-captains Grammas and senior Al Arrieta, finished the season with a 1-10 record. Nonetheless, Allegretti and Grammas won sectional titles, and senior Joe Townsend captured second place in sectionals, although all three lost in regionals. The varsity MVP went to Ron Grammas, who possesses three section titles, two second place regional finishes, and a semi-state finish. Joe Townsend was chosen this year's Most Improved Player. Potential Power

Under the guidance of Mr. Edwards, loss to undefeated Bishop Noll in the the 1982-83 J.V. basketball team finished the year with a 7-13 record. A 47-34 victory over Hammond Morton capped the season. Other victories included the Lowell game and the close contest against Merrillville. Tom Richter not only captured the most rebounds throughout the season, but was the team's high scorer, racking up a total of 153 points in twenty games.

This year's freshman A team demonstrated promising talent. Coached by Mr. Horvath, the team finished the season with a record of 6-14. Highlights of the season were a vicfinal seconds of the game. Bill Zelin received the Most Valuable Player award, and Robbie Hruskovich was chosen Most Improved Player.

Mr. Clements coached the freshman B team through a season which ended in a 6-7 record. The B team's highlight this year was a victory over Griffith, made possible by a shot in the last five seconds of the game. The Most Valuable Player award went to Michael Sanchez, and Mike Fagen received the Most Improved Player award. Bert Restyanszki was another tory over West Side and a one point outstanding player on the B team.

Close Calls

Lady Niners found the 1982-83 season filled with close calls. The girls' varsity team, coached by Miss Bombassaro, ended the year with a record of 5-12. Niners won the last three games but fell to archrival Merrillville at the Lake Station sectionals. The highlight of the season was Megan Haller's thirty-one points against Chesterton Trojans, setting a new school scoring record.

Minor Leaguers

This year's junior varsity baseball team was coached by Mr. Wiltshire through a season which ended with a 7-14 record. Most Valuable Player Kevin Wolf, who played in several varsity games, achieved the most hits and most runs batted in for the JV team. Sophomore Chris Jostes had the most stolen bases, home run hitters were Jeff Bistrow, Mike Sawochka, Kevin Wolf, and Bill Zelin.

(W)innings

Under the coaching of Mr. Pishkur, the varsity baseball team finished the 1982-83 season with an outstanding 20-10 record. Notable events included a 15-1 victory over River Forest and a 10-0 win over Hebron. At sectionals Andrean defeated Mann 7-0 and Lake Station 3-2, but the season ended with a disappointing loss to Merrillville. Most Valuable Player Awards went to John Sgouroudis and Steve Wellman. Ron Potter was named Most Improved Player, and junior Tom Blake received the award for Pride, Hustle, and Desire.

Individual Excellence

Spirit and dedication characterized the 1983 boys' track team. Led by Coach Billick, the team finished with a record of 3.3, but produced ten individual sectional qualifiers. Freshmen Tim Beird and Tim Mihalik set records in the 400 meter dash and 300 meter low hurdles. The team's Most Valuable Player was Roger Hruskovich. James Jamieson received The Most Valuable Running Events award, while the Most Valuable Field Events award went to senior Mike Lovich. The Most Improved Player in field was Eric Turner, and Jason Close was Most Improved in running.

Determination

Coached by Sue Hayes and Ralph Iatarola, the girls' track team finished its schedule with a 5-10 record, with victories evenly distributed throughout the season. Sectionals proved rewarding with Meg Haller placing fifth in the shot put, and the 800 meter relay team of Laura Buncich, Carolyn Burke, Chris Borisenko, and Paula Reardon coming in first place. The relay team placed fourth in regionals, qualifying for state finals. The Most Valuable Player in track events was Laura Buncich, while senior Meg Haller was named MVP in field events. The Most Improved Player award went to Annette Jagiela, and Paula Reardon was the year's Most Valuable Freshman.

Behind the Scenes

All too often, sports pages are filled with exciting stories and pictures of All-American athletes, while neglecting the many dedicated people who work behind the scenes, training and managing, keeping scores or statistics. Andrean coaches know, however, that these are the people who truly deserve recognition, for they take much of the worry about details from coaches, leaving them free to concentrate on their coaching duties. These are the people without whom no team or game would be successful.

Senior Tony Bonta, head student trainer at Andrean for the past two years, defines his job as simply being a part of "everything and anything that goes on" in sports. As our "resident intern," he is involved in the prevention and rehabilitation of injuries, doubling in his spare time as statistician, scorekeeper, manager, and assistant coach. During the basketball season, Tony was aided in these latter duties by the JV boys' basketball manager Brian Quinn and scorekeeper/statistician Felicia Johnson. Others who assisted throughout the year are various managers, including Jerry Humphrey, Tim Dailey, Eric Grafton, Pat Sullivan, Ed Jocus, Robin Gill, and Sonja Sera, and numerous scorekeepers/statisticians, among them Michelle Becke, Amy Shoemake, and Dave Chary.

Confidence and enthusiasm radiate from varsity cheerleaders as they execute a perfect pyramid.

Cheers

Regardless of weather and score, Andrean cheerleaders are always at athletic events, ready to enlist fans to cheer their team on to victory. With rousing chants and complicated pyramids, they convey school spirit to the Fifty-Niners and their opponents. But the faultless skill and coordinated movements are actually the results of long hours of practice each week. Many cheerleaders also attend summer camps to learn new cheers. Mrs. Crary is learn new cheers. Mrs. Crary is moderator of all three squads.

Routine Dazzle

Strenuous practice and hard work identify the 1982-83 pompon squad, the Ninerettes. Throughout the school year, they held frequent practices at which Ninerettes polished old routines and learned new steps to popular tunes. Many members of the squad also attended four-day summer camps to improve their skills. Under the guidance of Sr. Jane and Miss Schweitzer, the poms provided entertainment for pep assemblies and home football and basketball games. Junior Lisa DeBois was captain of the squad.

SIMURS Looking back ... we were few, just a handful of people from a variety of schools, clinging to our old friends for security, unsure of our place in a bewildering new world. But, as days passed, our uncertainties disappeared. We fit in; we contributed. We learned to take charge instead of being led.

> Looking around ... we are one. One common goal unites us, bridging the gaps of different interests and points of view. For a few short days, we think the same thoughts and experience the same feelings. Memories of the past and fears of the future combine into a kaleidoscope of last day of school, senior dinner, baccalaureate, graduation.

> Looking ahead ... we will be many. Soon we will be scattered, alone, independent, learning to be individuals and making our mark. Yet, no matter what our futures. Andrean will be a part of us, as inseparable, unforgettable, and near as our favorite memories.

Mirror, mirror on the wall . . .

Climbing Higher

"I suppose I feel much like an athlete who receives a Most Valuable Player award or a musician who is invited to join a well-known orchestra. That is, I have worked hard in an area where my talents lie, and I have achieved something."

Those were the thoughts of Linda Quinn when she learned that she would be valedictorian of the Class of 1983. With a grade point average of 5.43, she has certainly earned the honor. Linda plans on majoring in pre-med at Notre Dame.

Salutatorian Marita Jao will attend Northwestern University, majoring in pre-med with a minor in music. Marita's grade point average is 5.12. On learning of her achievement Marita said,

"I am honored that I have been chosen as the salutatorian. It took a lot of time and effort, especially with all my extracurricular activities, but it was all worth it."

The top ten students are Linda Quinn, Marita Jao, Christine Grusak, Greg Pupillo, Julie O'Connor, Mike Ambrozich, Sheila Blake, Gertie Wimmer, Al Arrieta, and Ron Grammas.

Shaving cream in hand as well as in hair and on face, Greg Pupillo charges a victim during the last-day-of-school craze.

We Gather Together

After rehearsing for graduation, only four days away, the senior class of 1983 gathered for a final meal together. During an unprecedented cafeteria meal of steaks and salads, royalties were awarded to students who, in the opinion of their classmates, influenced the school and the class of '83 most. Afterwards, more serious awards were given for special achievements and special services per-formed for the benefit of the school. The evening ended with the distribution of senior mugs and memory books - the mementos of four years of life at Andrean.

As a symbol of class unity, Beth Wojkovich offers to Bishop Grutka the class flag which she designed.

Together We Stand

Baccalaureate Mass is the last time that seniors are united as a class in the spiritual reverence that has been a part of their lives for four years. Bishop Andrew G. Grutka celebrated the Mass and emphasized the duties that graduates will face as Christian adults. Graduates presented communion gifts, each gift representing a part of themselves.

The closing benediction holds special meaning for graduates as they "go in peace, to love and serve the Lord."

Graduates-

At Last

Graduation Girls in gold, boys in red, we line up nervously, academic leaders and officers first, then the rest of us in alphabetical order. The line moves forward. A grev spring drizzle outside reroutes our line of march through the locker rooms. Then, we're inside the gym packed with families and friends, and suddenly it's SERIOUS. It's HAPPENING.

> Bishop Grutka, Father Fowerbaugh, and our principals await us. Marita salutes us and reminds us of the road we have traveled together at Andrean. Then, it's our turn. We mount the stairs to the stage as our names are called, walk across to receive a diploma and a greeting from the Bishop, and descend the stairs on the other side. All that work - all that waiting - and the moment is over.

The ending of a school year brings to a close the activities and studies which have sharpened our talents and minds. As our thoughts switch to summer plans, we realize that if and when we return to Andrean, changes are inevitable. Therefore, we say good-bye to administrators, coaches, teachers, and friends who have guided our progress throughout the year. We hope we will never say good-bye to the memories and insights we gained at Andrean, for they are ours to savor for a lifetime.
